

Our Storytellers

Beth Horner's lively, traditional storytelling style often incorporates music, creating a unique performance as she takes her listeners on journeys of adventure, warmth, wonder, haunting eeriness and raucous laughter. A NSN Circle of Excellence Oracle Award winner, she has performed multiple times at the National Storytelling Festival, on Live from National Geographic, and most recently served as narrative consultant for NASA Space Center's Story Mining project for which she collected stories of the scientists behind the Apollo Space Missions.

Tim Lowry has been telling stories of the People, by the People, and for the People for 25 years. Telling a variety of folk tales and stories from American History, Tim has presented thousands of educational programs for schools across the country. At the 2014 and 2015 National Storytelling Festivals, audiences loved joining him for a ride through history and listening to his engaging stories of historic SC Lowcountry: Colonial Tavern Tales, Gullah Folk Tales, and Civil War Ghost Stories.

Michael Parent, a native Mainer of French-Canadian descent, has performed stories and songs in English and French since 1977. He is currently performing three original one-man shows: "One More Thing", "A Beautiful Game" and "The Goofy Show". From New England to New Zealand, he has been featured at many events including hundreds of schools and libraries, the National Storytelling Festival, and several international festivals. This will be his second appearance in Mariposa.

Antonio Rocha, a native of Brazil, came to the US to perform and deepen his mime skills with Master Tony Montanaro, and also to study with Master Marcel Marceau. Antonio's unique shows of stories and mime have been performed in 14 countries on 6 continents. Some of the venues include Singapore's Festival of the Arts, The Kennedy Center, The Smithsonian, Tales of Graz in Austria, as well as many other Storytelling Festivals across the nation and around the world.

Anne Rutherford has loved a good story ever since her mother read her the Wizard of Oz. She grew up in a small Pennsylvania town; a lively child who read stories to find her place in the world. She's gone on to develop and perform a library of original and vintage stories of humor, adventure, trickster and supernatural. Anne is also two-time first place winner in the NW Folklore Festival Liar's Contest - so don't believe everything she tells you.

Sarah Sautler grew up in the woods of the Pacific Northwest. She told her first original story at the age of three. Sarah has appeared at The Exchange Place at the National Storytelling Festival, served on the Healing Arts Staff at Rady Children's Hospital, and performed at local and regional festivals. The magic in Sarah's storytelling is the absolute feeling that you're there; you've gone to some other time or place, and you believe in the most unlikely magic.
